

Inventory

Acc.6659

James Logie Robertson

National Library of Scotland
Manuscripts Division
George IV Bridge
Edinburgh
EH1 1EW
Tel: 0131-466 2812
Fax: 0131-466 2811
E-mail: manuscripts@nls.uk

© Trustees of the National Library of Scotland

James Logie Robertson was born in Milnathort, Kinross-shire in 1846 and educated at Orwell Parish School and Edinburgh University. He was assistant master at Heriot's Hospital and George Watson's College before joining the staff at Edinburgh Ladies' College in 1876. His writings, some under the pen-name of 'Hugh Haliburton', include English text-books, essays and poetry. Robertson dies in 1922.

Five volumes of newspaper cuttings with annotations by James Logie Robertson and a letter from George Fothergill to Robertson.

Bought, 1976.

1. Album containing newspaper cuttings, 1896-1909.
2. Album containing newspaper cuttings from Scotsman. 1901-12.
3. Album containing newspaper cuttings, 1907-1908 (book reviews).
4. Album containing newspaper cuttings, 1908 (book reviews).
5. Album containing newspaper cuttings, 1909-1910.
6. Letter to James Logie Robertson from George A Fothergill, 1917, including two poems 'My Garden Robin' and 'To an April Midge', 1916.