Personal and literary papers of Sir Patrick Michael Leigh Fermor (1915-2011), travel writer

Patrick "Paddy" Leigh Fermor was born and educated in England. Between 1933 and 1935 he travelled, largely on foot, from Rotterdam to Istanbul, then onwards to Mount Athos in Greece. Much later in life, he wrote two of his most celebrated books, 'A Time of Gifts' (1977) and 'Between the Woods and the Water' (1986), about part of this journey. A third posthumous volume, 'The Broken Road' (2013), edited by Colin Thubron and Artemis Cooper, was based on 'The Green Diary' (his only surviving diary from the journey) and a draft from the 1960s entitled 'A Youthful Journey'.

He met the Romanian princess Balasha Cantacuzène in Athens in 1935, and the two lived together at Lemonodassos, Greece, and then at the Cantacuzène estate in Băleni, Romania, until the outbreak of war in 1939.

Working as a Special Operations Executive officer behind enemy lines in Crete during World War II, he led the party that kidnapped the German General Heinrich Kreipe. The story of the abduction was later adapted into a film, 'Ill Met by Moonlight' (1957), based on the 1950 book of the same name by Leigh Fermor's second in command, William Stanley Moss. Leigh Fermor's account of events was published posthumously as 'Abducting a General' (2014).

After the war, he travelled with, among others, his future wife, the talented photographer Joan Rayner, née Eyres Monsell, whom he had met in Cairo. In the 1950s and 60s his reputation as a gifted writer grew through his articles and books, particularly "The Traveller's Tree" (1950), which describes a journey through the Caribbean, and 'Mani' (1958) and 'Roumeli' (1966), about his travels in remote areas of Greece.

In 1963 he and Joan, with help from friends and locals, built a house near the village of Kardamyli on the coast of the Mani peninsula in Greece where, in between various travels, they lived for the rest of their lives. Leigh Fermor received a number of awards, both literary and military, and was knighted in 2004.

The archive consists of extensive correspondence from fans, friends and associates, including the poet Sir John Betjeman, painter Nikos Hadjikyriakos-Ghika, and Leigh Fermor's principal publisher John "Jock" Murray. There are also literary manuscripts and typescripts, often with numerous annotations and revisions, diaries, notebooks, photographs, articles and research papers concerning most aspects of his and Joan's life, work and interests, including wide-ranging material on the war, in particular the resistance movement in Crete.

The National Library of Scotland also holds the Joan Leigh Fermor photographic collection (Acc.13179), the papers of Leigh Fermor's friend Alexander "Xan" Wallace Fielding (Acc.13327) and the archives of Leigh Fermor's principal publisher John Murray.

Presented, by the John R Murray Charitable Trust, 2012.

148-248

Literary manuscripts and typescripts.

This series consists of annotated and corrected manuscripts and typescripts, press cuttings and other printed items, with some related material and correspondence. The material is divided into 2 subseries: Major published works (Acc.13338/148-199) and Minor published and unpublished works (Acc.13338/200-248).

(Further manuscripts and typescripts can be found elsewhere in the collection. Works concerning World War II, for example, can be found in the World War II series, Acc.13338/349-436)

(See also Patrick Leigh Fermor's journals and notebooks, Acc.13338/470-533)

148-199

Major published works.

Arranged chronologically by date of publication.

- 148-149 "The Traveller's Tree" (1950).

- 179 Chapter 4: 'The Marches of Transylvania'. 2 versions (1 incomplete), circa 1978-1985.
- Chapter 5: 'Across the Forest'. 2 versions (1 incomplete), circa 1978-1985.

Chapter 6: 'Triple Fugue'. 2 versions, circa 1978-1985.
Version 1 continues from chapter 5, version 2, with no break for new chapter. The first 9 folios of version 2 are typescript.

Chapter 7: 'Carpathian Uplands', circa 1978-1985.

Chapter 8: 'The End of Middle Europe', circa 1978-1985.

Fragments (apparently removed from manuscript by Patrick Leigh Fermor and re-written/replaced), circa 1978-1985.

180-185 Corrected and uncorrected typescript drafts.

180 Chapter 1: 'Bridge Passage'. 8 versions, circa 1981.
Version 1 is incomplete – end of chapter only, entitled 'Hungary continued'.

181 Chapter 2: 'Budapest'. 7 versions, circa 1981. Version 1 includes the beginning of chapter 3.

182 Chapter 3: 'The Great Hungarian Plain'. 7 versions (plus one earlier version, stapled to chapter 2, version 1 – see above), circa 1981. The typescripts of this chapter are split into two parts. Some versions have only the first or second part, some have both.

183 Chapter 4: 'The Marches of Transylvania'. 2 versions, circa 1985. Version 1 is incomplete – end of chapter only.

Chapter 5: 'Across the forest'. 4 versions, circa 1985.
