These papers now deposited in the National Library of Scotland by Sir William Gordon Cumming, 6th Bart are mainly of interest for the history of the Gordons of Gordonstoun and the Cummings of Altyre from the earliest times virtually to the present day. But they give incidentally a great deal of information about Moray and the North East in general, and they are a useful source for the history of the families of Brodie of Brodie, Dunbar of Dunphail, Farquhar of Monuie, Gordon, Earls of Sutherland, Grant of Grant, Innes of Drainie, Urquhart of Burdsyards and others.

They fall into three distinct sections. The first, which includes practically no material later than 1800, but which includes the bulk of the papers dating from before that year, was listed in 1947 in considerable detail, and a summary catalogue has been available through the National Register of Archives (Scotland) (inventory no.0230) since 1948. It has been decided in consequence to leave this part of the collection alone, except in some minor cases, and the first part of this inventory is therefore little more than a concordance between the item or bundle numbers in the original summary catalogue (a copy of which follows section one), and the boxes in which for convenience they are now placed. The original detailed lists of titles and correspondence are to be found in the relevant parts of this inventory.

The only alterations made are that minute books of tack have been placed with other bound volumes in section two, and maps and plans now include some post 1800 material, as do family histories; certificates of birth etc and burgess tickets have been merged with similar material in the second section. The portion originally headed Miscellaneous Papers has been placed entirely in the second section, since it had become so disorganised on the shelves of the charter room at Altyre that it would have been difficult to re-establish it as it was. The correspondence for the period up to 1800 has been listed separately, but certain important letters (marked 0) were removed and sold before the collection came to the National Library. The portion headed Papers of Interest does not now form part of the collection.

The second section consists principally of papers relating to the 19th and 20th centuries, but it does include some important and interesting 17th century items, in particular the papers of Sir Robert Gordon 1st Bart of Gordonstoun, and of Sir Robert Farquhar of Mounie, with papers relating to the Scottish Mint, and to politics in general both Scottish and English throughout the century. Other papers dating from before 1800 in this section are included either amongst the military papers, or in bound volumes of estate accounts etc to be found after the estate papers in this section. The rest of the section is divided into formal documents and accounts (in the same sequence as in the NRA inventory for section one), miscellaneous estate papers, and estate correspondence, followed by bound volumes, with family and private papers at the end. It relates to the customary activities of 19th century lairds, with agriculture, roads, sport, militia, and church affairs predominating.

The third section consists of the papers of the estate of Burdsyards, which was bought by Altyre about 1959. Their historical importance is limited to the country around Forres and to the Urquhart family.

The fourth section comprises of material relating to the Gordon-Cumming family and their estates that were either deposited at a later date (nos.194-95) or for physical reasons were placed at the end of the sequence.

The collection was reported on in the Appendix to the Sixth Report of the Historical Manuscripts Commission, 1877, pp.681-8, and has been used extensively in Family Records of the Bruces and the Cumyns, 1870, by M E Cumming-Bruce, and in Edward Dunbar-Dunbar, Social Life in Former Days, 1865-6.

According to Fergusson only two versions of this text are recorded, one largely quoted by John Hill Burton in his Lives of Simon Lord Lovat and Duncan Forbes of Culloden, 1847, and borrowed by him from his friend Richard Gordon (see MS.9393, f.76), and the other in the papers (and hand) of Charles Kirkpatrick Sharpe which was the text Fergusson used.
